Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1400 on Wednesday 13 Oct 2021

UK Outlook for Monday 18 Oct 2021 to Wednesday 27 Oct 2021:
Although starting mostly dry in the southeast, a period of unsettled weather will then develop through next week, with wet and windy conditions likely for all areas, especially so in the north and west. There will be showers and longer spells of rain, with the greatest chance of gales in the north and northwest. There will still be some sunshine between the showers, and the best of any drier interludes will be in the southeast. Temperatures for all will be around average, if not slightly above. Towards the end of next week and beyond, there may be longer drier spells between the periods of wind and rain, these most likely in the south and east of the country.
